SATURDAY, December 22, 1883. The business of the week has been materially marred by the starm which passed over the Islands Saturday and unday last. Inter-island steamers and schooners were not able to bring forward the usual amount of the staple product, owing to the bolsterous weather that prevailed at the several harbors. The damage has been consider able, flames having suffered in all directions. So far, no somittee have been reported, but several bland schooners have yet to be heard from, The arrivals during the week were the Hawalian ghouser Kaluna from the South Seas, the U. S. S. Alert from San Francisco, and the barkentines Discovery and Jane A. Falkinburg from San Francisco. The departure of the steamship Mariposa was delayed one day in consequence of bad weather, and for a similar cause the barks Manutlan and Calbarien were delayed

In view of the impending war between France and China, the following statistics, clipped from a reliable source will tend to show who is most interested in the foreign trade with China. "China's foreign trade for 1882 was $160,000,000, of which England's share was $58.220,000, or, if we add to this the value of the trade with Hongkong, India, the Australian and other British colonies, the total British trade comes to $127,620,000 quite three fourths of the whole trade of China. The United States comes next in order, with a trade of $16.614-000, while the whole of continental Europe, Russia excepted, is put down for only $15,900,000. Russia's trade with China amounted to about onefourth of the last-mentioned sum. As to the shipping, of the 17,388,852 tons which entered and cleared the various ports in 1882 there were under the British flag as many as 10,814,799 tons while only 172,371 were French. The Chinese themselves had a total tonnage of ships and junks of 15,589,-969 tons. Thus it appears "ave the Baltimore Sun. that if France has little to ain by war with China the British Empire has much to lose." The senior counsel for the defense in the celebrated case of O'Donnell, is named Charles Russell.

The office closes two hours before the sailing of the steamer. A "late letter bag" is also kept open for the receipt of letters bearing an extra five cent stamp. The accommodation could be still further increased by an arrangement so that correspondence could be posted on board the steamer with a late fee, say of ten cents, up to the time of the steamer's departure. The idea is suggested by the frequent delays of steamers after the advertised time of sailing. This, of course, does not apply to the Oceanic Co's. line of steamers, where punctuality is the invariable rule, but in the case of the P. M. S. S. Following a custom which appears to be growing common in other countries, the Postmaster-General has had a Christmas card prepared by which to convey the compliments of the season to the various head offices with which he is in correspondence in different parts of the world. The design, which was drawn and lithographed in San Francisco, is pretty and chaste, and includes a view of the Honolulu Post Office which makes a very good appearance. There are over a hundred offices to whom this Christmas greeting from the Hawaiian Postal Administration will go.

The library is a most important branch of the institution, but since the removal of the Y. M. C. It must be obvious to all who take an interest in the sailor's welfare, that a reading room is a necessity and more particularly in the lower part of the town. The Sailors' Home library supplies, or ought to do, all that is wanted in that respect, and should, therefore, be maintained under any circumstances.

A lengthy meeting of the Privy Council was held on Tuesday last. The time of the meeting was almost wholly occupied with a discussion on the currency question, which ended in the passing of the resolution which is announced in our "by authority column this morning. Bill-sticking is a vocation that the operator should know something about before engaging in it. In this town, it is placed in the hands of any inexperienced person who can be found to undertake the work. On Tuesday last, a man engaged to post a flaring bill in two colors, red and blue, exnibited his ignorance by asking a passer-by, which was the right way up. After being set right in that respect he unconsciously placed his poster over one of equal importance and thus obscured it from public notice. A bill poster is not a mere machine, and at least, he ought to be able to discern betwixt the top and bottom of a full sheet.

> The S. S. Iwalani arrived on Monday, 24 hours after schedule time. Heavy weather was experience ed all round the Island of Kauai, and Captain Cameron deemed it advisable to remain and seek an anchorage in Hanamaulu harbor, rather than come across the channel in the storm. The schooner Manuokawai that left here on Wednesday 12th inst, for Kekaha, lost all her sails. Fortunately the S. S. James Makee came across her when about nine miles from the Kauai coast, took her on tow and left her anchored in the snug little harbor of Hanamaulu. The schooner was furnished with canvas by the James Makee and Iwalani sufficiently to enable her to proceed on her voyage.

Letters have been received from Captain Tripp, of the schooner Julia, which give fuller details of The Julia made the passage to Marakie in sixteen days, and landed all the returned laborers who belonged to that island, as well as a few belonging to other places, who wished to remain on Marakie. From Morakie the schooner sailed for Apiang where they arrived on 18th August, (Hawaiian time, which s 19th at the Gilbert Islands) and came to anchor off the missionary station Koinawa, which is also the trading station of the island. Captain R. Rudolf, who has resided there for twenty years, met the Julia's party when they landed, and introduced them to the King of the island-Te Kaiea. They had two interviews with Te Kaiea and delivered King Kalakaua's letter to him, to which he and his chiefs have sent a courteous reply. The chiefs who joined with the King in signing this letter are Tai Nabura, the King's uncle, and Teu Toakai Teu Kabana, brothers of the King. The schooner did not visit Tarawa, Captain Tripp being informed that the four chiefs who ruled each his own distriet on that island had been killed. As there was no head chief to receive them, Captain Tripp landed his returned emigrants at Tarawa and went on to Butaritari. At Apiang a census had recently been taken which gave the number of the population at 3,103 of whom 1,583 were females. The Storm on Maui.

The first communication with the Island of Mani since last week reached us last Tuesday morning by the S. S. Kilauca Hou. This was deemed necessary to prevent her from dragging. As it was, one of her chains parted. The gale moderated on Sunday night, but during Sunday night there were some heavy squalls. The shipping in Kahului harbor suffered no damage whatever. The rain fell in torrents and a good deal of cane was laid low by the wind, but it is hoped, not beyond recovery. Several outbuildings at Kahului and Wailuku were blown down, also the derrick in use at the boring of an artesian well at Kahului. A 12-foot fence around the new station house at Kabului was blown down in several places. 'The most serious damage of all was the total demolition of about 600 feet of the Walhee flume on the Spreckels'

Being unable to reach the harbor, the boat containing four men, put out to sea and ran for Waihee, where they managed to get ashore through the breakers and land their boat.
